THE CHRISTIAN ENDEAVOR

This Society of Young People Gathers in Convention.

AT OUR SISTER TOWN, MILESBURG

There is a Large Attendance and the Services Are Proving Soul-Inspiring Enjoyable Social on Wednesday Evening.

EARLY SUNRISE MEETING HELD

"He that glorieth, let him glory in the Lord."

The eleventh annual convention of the Centre County Christian Endeavor Union held full sway in Milesburg on Wednesday and today (Thursday).

Delegates from all over the county reached the beautiful little town on the noon trains and many drove from the country hereabouts. The convention is being held in the Presbyterian church, of which Rev. Walter F. Carson is pastor. The handsome edifice was beautifully decorated with our national flag, golden rod ferns and the Christian Endeavor colors, red and white flags.

The first work of the convention was the enrollment of delegates.

The county officers are the following ladies and gentlemen: President, Jas. A. Pratt, Unionville; vice president, Irvin Noll, Milesburg; rec. sec., Miss Nannie Fisher, Unionville; district and cor. sec., Frank P. Fisher, Centre Line; treasurer, Mrs Rose L. Bierly, Milesburg.

The convention opened at 2:30, with a delegates' prayer meeting led by Frank P. Fisher. The first hymn was "Sweet Peace the Gift of God's Love," followed by many other inspiring and uplifting songs. The Scripture lesson was read, and an earnest prayer was made by Mr. Fisher. The meeting throughout was spiritual and much like an "old-fashioned Methodist experience meeting," one of those kind that reaches down into the hearts of men. The prayer meeting closed and the convention was then in the hands of the president, Mr. James Pratt.

The minutes of the last session of the Union, which was held at Howard in 1902, were read by Miss Nannie Fisher. They were very interesting and carefully made up. They were approved as read.

The president introduced Rev. Walter F. Carson pastor of the church in which the convention is held, who in an eloquent manner made the Address of welcome.

Rev. Artman pastor of the United Evangelical Church of Howard, made the response to the address of welcome. The two papers that were to have been read by Miss Florence Marshall and Mr. Oran Grove at the afternoon's session were postponed until Thursday. The first session which proved a great success was brought to a close by the singing of "Nearer My God to Thee" and the Benediction by Rev. Carson.

EVENING.

The services in the evening were presided over by Irvin Noll and began about 7:30 with a praise service conducted by Mrs. Charles Peters, it was one that long will be remembered. It seemed as though the walls of the church were singing forth with praise. Everyone seemed to sing as though their very lives depended on their singing. After this most soul thrilling service of song, President Pratt announced the different committees.

They were as follows:

Resolutions—H. S. Ebbs, Rev. Schuyler, Miss Jane McCalmont, M. E. Heberling.

Committee to name nominating committee—Miss Maud Hopkins, Howard; Miss Cornelia Dale, Lemont; Miss Weaver, State College; and Miss Martha McKnight, Buffalo Run.

After the announcement of these committees, Mr. Noll the chairman of the meeting introduced Rev. J. Mitchell of Houtzdale pastor of the Presbyterian church of that place, who spoke very forcibly on the subject "It will make it the rule of my life to support my own church in every way, especially by attending all the regular Sunday and mid-week services."

Rev. Mitchell is not a brother of John Mitchell the prominent president of the Miners Union, but had he been, he could not have held the attention of the audience better than this young Scotch Irishman. From beginning to the end of his sermon he threw "hot shots" at those who do not do their duty to their own churches. He spoke of so many silly little excuses people make for not attending their regular church services. He also said it was not always the fault of the church members, but often the pastors fault, that his church does not prosper. In closing he said when all people shall come together in one accord and praise the Lord without murmuring, God will then send his richest blessing. After singing, Mr. Frank Fisher made a few announcements.

Rev. S. S. Berger of Petersburg was then introduced, and spoke on the subject "The Joy of a Life of Trust." He proved himself a fluent speaker, and handled his subject with ease. The evening services were brought to a close by Rev Dr Schuyler pronouncing the benediction.

THE SOCIABLE.

After the evening's session the members of the Milesburg Christian Endeavor Society gave a reception on the parsonage lawn which proved a great social success and was the means of creating a warmer, friendly feeling among the delegates and all persons present. Elegant refreshments consisting of cocoa, cake and coffee were served which was greatly enjoyed by all. The lawn was beautifully decorated with japanese lanterns which certainly presented a pretty sight. The social committee deserve a great deal of credit for the manner in which the entertainment was arranged and carried out.

THURSDAY MORNING.

Quite a number of delegates and other persons sacrificed one or two hours sleep for the Master and arose early and attended the Sunrise Prayer meeting at 6 00 o'clock It was worth twice yes thrice the time spent in sleeping, to hear this good parson preach the word at this hour in the morning. It was a masterly sermon and showed great preparation "The Great Life Purpose." one would ask him elf or herself what is their great life purpose, or had they a purpose in the great life.

Quite often we go stumbling along this great broad highway with no purpose at all in view. There are three classes of people, the one mentioned above the second is the worldly purpose, and the other is the Christians purpose. The text was taken from the 3rd chapter of Philipians. Rev. A. C. Lathrop had full charge of this early hour meeting, and in the course of his excellent sermon he brought out very forcibly these thoughts, that our great life purpose should be to keep ourselves "Unspotted from the World," and "Cleave to abide with Jesus Christ" and there to "Press forward, for the mark of the high calling in our Lord and Master Jesus Christ."

The Reverend gentleman seemed to preach the word in such an earnest manner that many resolved that they from this time forth would live better lives. The meeting was a great spiritual benefit to the delegates and was just what they needed for the balance of the convention work. When sentence prayers were asked for fully twenty responded. After which an experience meeting was held and many testified as to the saving knowledge of Jesus Christ. The meeting was brought to a close, and all went home feeling that it was good for them to be there.

GOLDEN EAGLE KNIGHTS!

16th Annual Meeting of the Susquehanna District.

HELD IN BELLEFONTE LABOR DAY

The Most Successful Event of the kind Ever Held by the Association—A Splendid Parade Witnessed by Large Crowds.

WELCOMED BY BURGESS WALKER

Labor Day 1903 has come and gone and with it the Sixteenth Annual Meeting of the Susquehanna District Association Knights of the Golden Eagle. The day in Bellefonte passed off most successfully and it can be truthfully said that it was the finest parade and the most orderly crowd ever seen on our streets.

Knights were present from all the adjoining counties such as Clinton, Lycoming, Potter, Northumberland and Union which are included in the Susquehanna District. There were some of the Grand Castle officers who for reasons best known to themselves failed to arrive and several of the Castles were absent which was a source of disappointment. But otherwise everything passed off successfully and the committee are congratulating themselves on the great success they make of it.

There were busy scenes in the morning. At both depots reception committees met the the visiting Knights and made them welcome, escorted them headed by bands to the Armory or the lodge room. At 11 o'clock there was a meeting of the Association with President W. P. Kuhn, of Bellefonte, in the chair Secretary J. Kennedy Johnston to assist him. After transacting some minor business the following officers were elected for the ensuing year.

President—J. T. Miller, Lewisburg.
Secretary—W. W. Musser, "
Treasurer—J. B. Gresh, Milton.

Lewisburg was selected as the place of meeting for next year.

The parade began to form at 1:30 on Linn, Lamb and Spring and at 2 o'clock moved over the following route: Lamb to Thomas, to High, to Spring, to Bishop, countermarch on East Bishop, to Allegheny, to Linn and countermarch to Allegheny, and then to the Diamond where they passed in review and everyone was required to look his finest.

The sidewalks along the route of parade were lined with a great crowd of men, women and children and many of the business houses and residences were decorated in honor of the event, The line of marches was a long one, but the weather was so pleasant that despite the several miles which they passed over, the walking was not an unpleasant task by any means. Clean shaven, clear eyed the paraders were the recipients of many deserved compliments. The Logan Fire Company, Bellefonte Castle and the Labor Unions were especially complimented.

In the drill contest which followed the parade Williamsport Commandery took the prize of $10 for the best drilled commandery. This was easy money as there were no other contestant. Galeton Commandery took the prize of $10 for coming the greatest distance. Spring Mills Castle took the prize of $10 dollars for having the largest percentage of men in line, and Millheim Castle $10 for making the best appearance in line.

The parade proceeded in the following order:

Chief Marshal—Capt. Hugh S. Taylor, Chief of Staff, S. D. Gettig, Staff Officers, J. A. Williams, L. R. Poorman, J. M. Keichline, J. H. Corl.

After the parade a meeting was held in the Court House which was presided over by W. P. Kuhn the President of the Association who made a neat little speech in opening, introducing Burgess W. Harrison Walker who in an eloquent speech gave the visitors a hearty welcome. It was responded to by J. D. Gresh, of Milton, the newly elected treasurer of the Susquehanna Association who made a happy and interesting address. Extemporary speechs were made by George R. Meek, Charles R. Kurtz and J. Kennedy Johnston.

In the evening interesting exercises exemplifying the work of the order were held in the hall in the Eagle Block.

FOR A NEW GLASS WORKS.

Movements on Foot to Rebuild—It Should Receive Encouragement.

Bellefonte business men are now agitating the project for rebuilding the glass works which was recently destroyed by fire. With this end in view a meeting was held in Col. Reeder's office Wednesday afternoon to consider ways and means.

In view of the fact that we are about to lose the Scale works it is important that something should be done for the industrial welfare of the town. Williamsport, Lock Haven, Jersey Shore, Clearfield and Philipsburg have enterprising boards of trade and are bending every effort to secure new industries. Williamsport has just secured a steel plant that employs 500 men. Is Bellefonte to fall behind?

The old company will contribute $12-000, toward the new glass works and it is desired to raise $52,000 more. The new glass works if built will be a 24 blower tank furnace, three times as large as the old one. It will employ 160 men and have a monthly pay roll of $5,000. Surely such an industry is worth having here and if anything is to be done it must be done at once.

University Extension Committee.

EDITOR REPUBLICAN.

I have read with interest the article republished from "The Watchman" in reference to the course lectures for the coming winter. I would suggest, that the committee in charge, should not become discouraged in the attempt to furthur this project from the fact, that our friends in neighboring towns, had many obstacles to encounter before being successful in procuring the desirable number of members to warrant the coming of an interesting lecture. The Editor of "The Watchman" is mistaken in his judgement when he says "that Bellefonte has become too blinded by conceit to see any advantage in the University Extension lectures." The brains of the people of Bellefonte are about the same quantity and quality as those whom we meet when traveling in other lands, if used properly, but if time and intelligence must be wasted by excessive card playing in our community, how can we expect an advancement of a literary feature now under discussion, or when men and women become hypnotized with cards, and have no other thought of amusement but through euchre or whist, they must look for such remarks as our good friend the Editor of the Watchman has openly given. Let the well chosen committee of the University Extension act and that done promptly. Let them canvas the town well, and through the press keep the subject before the people, in a short time they will be repaid for their labors, and success will be theirs.

A CITIZEN.

The Fisher Mill property, comprised of flouring mill, house, store building, bank barn and about thirty-two acres of land, at Farmers Mills, was sold Saturday to Samuel Fredericks for $5010. Possession will be given April 1st, at which time Mr. Fredericks will conduct the mill.

The late Major Fisher paid over $11,-000 for the property, and spent not less than eight or ten thousand dollars for repairs.—Centre Reporter.

ADDRESS OF WELCOME.

Delivered to Visiting Knights of the Golden Eagle

BY W. HARRISON WALKER, ESQ.

The Chief Garges of Bellefonte He Gave a History of the Order From its Very Beginning.

GAVE THEM FREEDOM OF THE TOWN

BURGESS W. HARRISON WALKER,
Who made the Welcoming Address to the Visiting Eagle Knights.

In his address of welcome to the K. G. E., Burgess Walker spoke in part as follows:

It is proper for me at this time to say a few words about the Order and give to you a little history relative to the founding this institution

The Order was founded by Sir Knight John Emory Burbage in August 1872 in the City of Baltimore. To use his own language, he said: "So deeply did this thought impress itself upon my heart and mind that I determined to begin the work at once. The name of this Order should be 'Knights of the Golden Eagle,' or 'Calvalric Knights of America,' and its objects the cultivation of the social, moral and intellectual feelings of its members and the promotion of their welfare in all walks of life; to give moral and material aid to its members and those dependent upon them as well as to the widows and orphans so far as its finances would permit; to pay weekly benefits to its sick and disabled members, and death benefits to the families of deceased members. Its ritual should have for its theme the aims and struggles of the Christian warrior to gain the immortal crown, and it should portray, by symbol and allegory, his passing through the wilderness of sin and woe in his journey to the Heavenly Castle." The motto selected was "Fidelity, Valor and Honor."

The Order was introduced in Pennsylvania in 1875. We now have 430 subordinate Castles and a total membership of 42,312 as per the report of June 1903. This is a net gain for these same Castles of 1050 members over the report made in December 1902. Since the June report there are yet 21 Castles to be heard from, and if they show the same number of members (without a single gain) that they had six months ago, the entire membership in the state is 43122 as against 42000 for the whole of 1902. This is the largest membership we have ever had, and if we continue to elect new members the balance of the year as we have done the past few months we will have a membership in the State of over 45000.

Three new Castles have been instituted this year, up to August 8th, and the application for the fourth was received but a few days ago. The combined membership of these new Castles, just instituted, number 227.

It is very meet and right that societies should exist for the relief of the distressed, for the protection of the widow and orphan, and for all offices of human benefaction—where the rich, the poor, the high the low, the cultured and the uneducated may meet as brothers; where sectional strife, partisan politics and opposing creeds cannot enter, where the lessons of fraternity and brotherly love may be taught free of all prejudice.

Its doors are opened to all citizens of this Nation, and all who enter are placed upon the broad platform of equality. It invites all loyal workers for the good of others. It demands of all labor and self-sacrifice in time of prosperity, and in return promises aid, assistance and sympathy in the hour of affliction and distress.

And now, in behalf of the people of Bellefonte I desire to thank the members of the Knights of the Golden Eagles of this District for the honor they have conferred upon us. Every pledge and every inducement that was made to influence the Castles of Central Pennsylvania to hold their convention here, we stand ready to fulfil to the letter.

And to you, members of the Knights of the Golden Eagles who are strangers in our midst, I desire you in particular to understand that every Bellefonte sir knight belongs to you. Use him as your guide, servant or anything that will contribute to your happiness.

I sincerely trust that your visit to our City will result in incalculable good to this Order, and I also sincerely trust that our visitors will find opportunities for enjoyment and pleasure, so that when you return to your homes you will carry with you only happy memories and pleasant recollections of your visit to the "Home of Governors."

COMING TO THE FRONT.

The Wallace Brick Manufacturing Company of Milesburg.

"Fifty years in business in Milesburg!" This is a long time to be located in one town, but that is the length of time our good friend Mr. Frank Wallace has been going back and forward among the citizens of that little city.

A half century has passed around and old Father Time finds him the same honest toiler as he did long years ago.

Mr Wallace came to Centre county shortly after the Mexican war. He is a Spaniard by birth and with friends emigrated to this country a good many years ago. Immediately he became a loyal citizen of our glorious country. When old enough he started in the brickmaking business, but when the call to arms was made in the dark days of '61 he, with other brave men, went to the country's defense, and a braver soldier never wore the "blue" than this man. Battle-scarred, he came back to his home and resumed his business. He has been prosperous, and in a few months will have one of the best brick manufacturing establishments in the State.

His sons, who have always been his right-hand bower and whom he can feel proud of, are in the firm, and with their father are putting in a large plant. The old system of making brick by hand is done away with in these days of wonderful inventions, and he has a system of making brick at the rate of 40,000 a day. He has placed a 60-horse-power engine in his works, which operates a drum that draws the raw material from the clay bank in cars in one and one-half minutes, places it upon the elevators, from there into the rolls, thence to the mixing machine and then is carried to an automatic cutting table. From this table the new made brick are carried to cars which convey them to the dryer and then to the kilns, all by machinery. It is one of the most up-to-date, systematic way of making brick ever invented and we feel sure Mr. Wallace will make a great success of the work.

They say Milesburg is going to be "the" town in the county afterwhile and Mr. Wallace intends to be in the lead. Good luck and success to you is our best wish.

An Immersion on Sunday.

On Sunday afternoon about 4 o'clock some of the good people of the Methodist church gathered along the banks of Logan's Branch near the old car shops office and held an immersion. Rev. Jno. Wood conducted the service. Those immersed were Mrs. James Rine, Misses Ines Robb, Carrie Robb and Grace Robb daughters of Mr. and Mrs. Herman Robb.

THROUGH MACEDONIA.

Scene of Revolution Described by a Traveler.

COUNTRY OF UNREST AND CRIME.

Albert Malet Tells of Atrocities Committed by Turks and Albanians—He Says the Land Is a Region Which Might Be Rich, but Which Is One of the Poorest—Bad Roads and Old Bridges.

In August last I planned a journey across Macedonia, the scene of the present outbreak against the Turkish government, and Old Servia, says Albert Malet, translated from L'Illustration for the Boston Transcript. In Paris hardly any one encouraged me to go. "Are you tired of your life?" said a friend of mine who had been there the year before. "Provide yourself with ransom money," suggested another one. At the foreign office they refused me all letters of recommendation to our consuls because they considered my plan a very dangerous one.

In spite of all protests, however, I undertook the journey, and on the 2d of September I was at Uskub. I had crossed the valley of the Vardar, had visited Monastir, pursued my journey into the very heart of the mountains to the lakes of Prespa and Ochrida, had gone back to Pristina, reached Prizren, situated in the midst of Albanian tribes, and when finally, in October, I returned to Paris the Macedonian bedbugs were the only things that cooled my blood.

Do not infer from this that there was perfect tranquillity there and that people could go around the country as easily and safely as on the boulevards in Paris. To begin with, there are places there which are more inaccessible than the desert of Tschad, as are Ipek and Dibra, in the heart of Albania. The Turkish government thought it necessary to give me eighteen gendarmes as an escort to go from Monastir to the lake of Ochrida, although many posts are scattered along the road. It was in the midst of a company of gendarmes that I visited the market square in Stronga. Three weeks before my arrival there seven fishermen, Bulgarians and Servians, who had arrived on Lake Ochrida, had been welcomed with a shower of bullets. Their boat was riddled with the shot, one of the men had been killed, while the other six had been thrown in prison as conspirators.

There are continual murders committed daily. These have been going on for the last twenty years—not like the Armenian massacres, en masse and by exterminating whole towns and villages at a single blow. Here they are too near Europe. The cry of too many victims butchered at a time may inspire pity in the hearts of the European nations and arouse their indignation. On this account the Turks here proceed rather cautiously. They kill in detail, for this makes less noise, and if in this way more time is required the final result is not the less sure. Ten days before my arrival, not very far from Uskub—there are consuls of the great powers there—in the village of Brezna, the bodies of four Christian peasants were found in the woods, their heads severed and their bodies torn to pieces. This had been the work of Albanians.

In the village itself a boy of fifteen years, a student in the Servian school at Uskub, had received two bullets, in the shoulder and in the chest. During my sojourn there they operated in the hospital upon a small boy of twelve years whose knee had been cut open with a blow from the knife of an Albanian for no other reason than mere pleasure. Accurate observers—among them the consul of one of the most powerful nations, who showed me the records—reckon with certainty that more than 200 murders were committed during the first six months of 1902, this in the district of Uskub alone, in a stretch of territory less than a Swiss canton. All admit that this number is not even a fifth of the actual murders done.

Mark well that this is being done in a region which is usually rather quiet, where the revolutionary committees are unknown. Judge, then, what is going on farther east, near the Bulgarian frontier, or farther south, around Seres and Salonika and Monastir, where the revolutionary committees furnish the pretexts to the authorities to search for arms, which searches usually result in butcheries. Such things had happened at Tersie on the 19th of May last, at Rouba on the 29th, at Rakitnitsa on the 19th of June and on the 13th and 17th of June at Patele and Cerenovo, situated on the shores of the beautiful lake of Ostrovo. In these places the Turks had caused the men, young and old, to be beaten and tortured to death, violated the women and children and cut off the heads of about thirty Christian peasants. At Monastir people can buy photographs in which Turkish gendarmes, nicely dressed for the occasion (with borrowed clothes), have arranged themselves with a triumphant air around a table laden with human heads, horribly mutilated.

Of the three vilayets, Salonika, Monastir and Uskub, which comprise Macedonia, the last one, which is also called the vilayet of Korsovo, is historically and geographically quite distinct from the other two. It faces toward the north and the Danube and not toward Salonika and the Mediterranean. By its history and by its population it is a part of the state of Servia. Its classical name is Old Servia (Stara Serbia). Here for many years murders have been committed of which no one in Europe seemed to be aware.

Macedonia is very mountainous. Here and there large circular plains are seen—the beds of former lakes now dried up—communicating with each other by narrow gorges through which run small streams of water. Two of these defiles can justly be counted among the most beautiful in Europe—one on the road from Uskub to Salonika, called Demir Capu (iron gate); the other on the road from Uskub to Mitrovitsa, the Katchanic pass.

Through the mass of mountains the river Vardar opens toward Salonika and the Ægean sea, a route which, on the north, leads toward the Danube and the Hungarian plain, and toward Old Servia and the river Moravia. It is the only route in that region leading toward Europe and terminating in the Mediterranean. It is the natural outlet of all the Danubian provinces, making connections direct with Hungary, Austria, Germany, the Suez canal and the east. It is easy to see, therefore, the international importance of this Macedonian route.

The country might become one of the richest in Europe. As it is, it is one of the poorest. Today three-fourths of the land is waste. Its most fertile valleys, such as that of the Vardar, are nothing but vast steppes and marshes, where the water stagnates, breeding fevers. The mountains for the most part are bare. The Turks and the Albanians have cut down all the big trees, while the mountain goat has completed their bad work by eating up the brush. That is why almost all the rivers have become mere torrents, with immense beds of pebbles and sand.

Above everything else, the country is picturesque. Many sites are imposing. The amusing variety of men and costumes compensates for the more sad and melancholy parts of the landscape. Politically and ethnologically Macedonia is like a dish of salad. Servians, Albanians, Bulgarians, Greeks, Konso-Valaques, Turks and Tcherkasians are cast together as in some ethnological museum, forming a complete gallery of costumes. You can find there pretty nearly all the grades of civilization, and in a few days' stay you seem to be living through several centuries of history. At the same moment you see a bicyclist and a man traveling in the fashion of the eleventh century, an Albanian wearing his national skirt driving mercilessly before him a Christian slave to work and a European gentleman dressed in the latest style. Traveling through the country you will have to use the train, the carriage, the diligence, the horse with the pack saddle and the ox cart with axle trees and wheels without iron hoops around, known no doubt to the Goths in the fourteenth century. The roads for the most part are regular quagmires, especially in the vilayet of Kossovo, where the Albanians are opposed to any improvements, thinking that if the roads are bad the government cannot transport cannon to be used against them. As to bridges, there are no new ones, and the old ones—those left by the Romans—are for the most part fallen into ruin.

A BANK INNOVATION.

Kansas City Concern Has a "Stocking Room" For Women Clients.

A "stocking room" has been built and furnished in the National Bank of Commerce in Kansas City, says the New York World. It is called the "stocking room" because it is a place where a woman may go to be alone and out of sight while she takes from its secure hiding place the money she wishes to deposit.

The room is beautifully furnished, but the most interesting things in the room are three mahogany stools about twelve inches high, with a leather cushion at the top of each. These stools are not intended to be sat upon. There are chairs for that purpose. The stools are for women to put their feet upon while they are taking out their money. Next door to the "stocking room" is the women's main room, with desks and chairs, and beyond that is a waiting room finished in mahogany.

William H. Winants, vice president of the bank, took the reporter into the "stocking room" and showed him its beauties and mysteries.

"Not many men will ever see the inside of the room," said Mr. Winants. "It is sacred to the use of our women clients. A colored maid will always be in attendance in this suit of rooms, and no man may enter its portals during banking hours. I have seen the necessity of it ever since I have been in the banking business. It is a fact that half the women who come to this bank to deposit money carry it either in their stockings or in the bosom of their dress. I have often had women come to my desk and blushingly inform me that they wished to deposit some money, but would have to go into retirement first in order to produce it.

"Why, I have seen women many times go into one of these corners, turn her back, peep all around and then stoop down and gently bring forth a roll of bills. We decided that if women would carry their money in such places we would make it easy for them to abstract this or replace it, so we originated the 'stocking room.' I predict that it will soon be a feature of all banks that have private rooms for women clients."

The National Bank of Commerce is the first bank to have a "stocking room."

Tommy's Quick Answer.

"Tommy," said an uncle to his precocious nephew, "your mother tells me she has to give you pennies to be good. Do you think that is as things should be?"

"Of course it is," replied Tommy. "You certainly don't want me to grow up and be good for nothing, do you, uncle?"—Chums.

BRITISH WAR SCANDAL

Revelations In Report of Royal Commission.

NO PREPARATIONS FOR BOER WAR

Conflict Said to Have Been Begun Without Knowledge of Home or Hostile Forces—Colonel Lucas Declared That the Rifles Would Not Hit a Haystack—Boots of Brown Paper For Soldiers.

The New York Herald recently published the following from its correspondent in London:

Revelations contained in the report of the royal commission on the conduct of the war in South Africa have filled all England with consternation and indignation. From three volumes just issued much has been suppressed "in the public interest," but enough remains apparently to justify the opinion freely expressed that the war office at the outbreak of the trouble was in a state of incompetency which is nothing short of amazing.

The testimony of General Nicholson shows that the intelligence section of the war office relating to South Africa before the war was run with a force of only two officers and one clerk. The treasury, against the united recommendation of the war office, had refused any increase, and hence it was not surprising when England went to war that there was no effective map of the Orange Free State, the Transvaal or Natal. To quote General Kitchener's own testimony, according to official memoranda, the field intelligence department had to be created from the very beginning.

General Nicholson is responsible for the information that there was practically no valid connection between the intelligence department and the defense committee of the cabinet. The British local defense scheme was based on inadequate forces. It was merely that the generals reported how they could make the best of what troops they had. The experts prepared a plan of mobilization in the early summer, but the government would not vote the extra money until forced to do so. This was the testimony of General Sir F. Stopford.

From official memoranda and Colonel Altham's testimony it is apparent that Lansdowne, then war secretary, knew there were 48,000 mounted Boers who could oppose the British, yet almost without exception infantry was sent. When finally the mobilization of the First army corps was ordered it was so late that it was not possible for Sir Redvers Buller to be in a position to take the field until December. The Boers had invaded Natal the second week in October. Hasty mobilization on the part of the British then caused disorganization.

Nearly all the military witnesses, notably General Kelly-Kenny, put stress on the fact that the representations of the commander in chief did not meet sufficient compliance. Lord Wolseley emphasizes this and also the way Lord Lansdowne treated him and his advice in 1899, which was absolutely disregarded, refusing to sanction even the most urgently needed expenditure. The war secretary's refusal delayed the army corps. Nor did he send out the reenforcements urged. Lord Roberts also condemns the initial preparations in South Africa.

The volumes teem with the war officers' shortcomings. The British had no quick firing guns in South Africa. When the war started warnings from the Cape were neglected, mobilization was muddled, the war officers did not even know that pompon guns could be used for field purposes. It was not known here until the middle of October that the Boers were using any heavy guns in the field. There were so few pontoons in this country that old ones had to be sent out. Colonel Lucas declared that the sights of some of the rifles were so bad the soldiers could not hit a haystack with them.

Sir Fleetwood Wilson, financial adviser to Lord Kitchener, found serious avoidable waste of public money in the ordnance expenditures at Cape Town, due to insufficient preparations before hostilities and lack of forethought in demanding stores. There was no evidence to show that any steps were taken at the Cape before the war to obtain information as to the prevailing prices and local sources of supply. It was not until four days before hostilities began that any serious attempt was made to forecast probable requirements.

To what use provisions were sometimes put is thus related by Lieutenant Colonel Morgan:

"We had large stocks at our base ports of tinned meat and biscuits. They became such a nuisance in this way that we had no storage for them. The food had to stand out in the open, and of course some of it went to the bad. Instead of insisting on one pound tins of meat, as was recommended by a committee sixteen years ago, the war office bought the pound tins, these being heavy, the men often threw them away."

According to Colonel Carr, the soldiers' boots were distinctly bad in 1900. They were of brown paper, at least not much better. Owing to the inability of the troops to obtain soap half the force in South Africa, Colonel Sir W. Richardson testified, became verminous.

Press comments censure Lord Lansdowne and others of the cabinet severely, and some call for his resignation.

THE GOLDEN ROD DANCE.

Notable Social Function Which Closed Series of Summer Dances.

The annual "Golden Rod Dance" was held in the armory Friday evening and as usual proved a most notable social event. It marked the passing of the summer season and was one of the most successful of the series of dances. There were 125 guests present and the music was furnished by Fisk's orchestra of Williamsport.

The program contained thirty dances and was prettily gotten up, with Golden Rod emblems. The armory was very neatly and tastefully decorated with bowers of greens and the Golden Rod, which prevailed in all the decorations, being commemorative of the annual dance of which this is the seventh.

Ceader served the refreshments, which consisted of sandwiches, sherbert, cakes and coffee.

The patronesses were Mesdames C. F. Montgomery, H. C. Curtin, M. D. Burnett, Alice Wilson, R. G. H. Hayes, W. F. Reeder, Edward H. Richards, John M. Shugert, John M. Dale, H. C. Quigley, W. F. Reynolds, T. A. Shoemaker, Joseph L. Montgomery.

The committee in charge comprised Edward L. Hoy, Thos. Beaver, Wilson W. Gephart and John Munson.

Among the guests from a distance were Miss Margaret Cass, Tyrone; Miss Potter, Baltimore; Mrs. Geo. FOR UNIVERSITY EXTENSION.

A Move on Foot to Ensure a Course of Lectures This Winter.

By special request we republish from this week's Watchman the following interesting article in regard to University Extension. It is timely and deserves the careful consideration of our readers.

An executive committee has been formed in Bellefonte with the hope of arousing enthusiasm to ensure a course of University Extension lectures duringthe winter.

It is somewhat of a commentary on the much vaunted literary inclinations of our old townthat it should require much of an effort to accomplish such an end, but as there has always been an indifference on the part of our people to anything of a distinctively literary nature in the way of divertisement the success of this movement is more or less of a speculation.

Philipsburg, Huntingdon and other nearby towns that do not pretend to exist in the classic atmosphere that we are prone to believe ourselves living in take up the University Extension work and carry it to a successful and profitable conclusion without extraordinary effort. But with Bellefonte the same trouble that has been so discouraging along these same lines in former years, may be anticipated again.

We hope for the sake of the town and the good that may be derived from such a course that we are mistaken in our judgments that Bellefonte has become too blinded by self conceit to see any advantage, whatever, to be had from it.

The gentlemen who are undertaking the movement represent every phase of professional life in the community and while they are ready to do a large share of the preliminary work it is not altogether unreasonable to suppose that there are a few others in Bellefonte who will join with them. In fact we can state positively that we know of several homes in which the University Extension work will be welcomed; homes that are really looking for something higher and broader than the tea table gossip of servants and clothes, that seem to be the ruling passion of so many women.

If the course is assured it will include six lectures to be delivered in Petriken hall during the months of Feb. March and April. The lecturer will probably be the very eminent English scholar Mr. E. L. S. Hasburg, of Queen's College, Oxford, who has consented to come to this country for a three months lecture tour. He has been a leader in University Extension work in Europe for the past fifteen years and is regarded as one of the ablest men on the staff.

Talk this matter over in your home, give it the thoughtful consideration it merits and see if you won't decide to join; rather than deny yourself this opportunity of looking out with a broader and higher knowledge through the benefits of this great public educator.

YES OR NO?

Bellefonte People Are Respectfully Asked to Answer These Questions.

Is there anything in the evidence of one's senses?

Is there anything in the testimony of one's friends?

Can reliance be placed upon statements from people we know?

Are the opinions of local citizens of any greater moment than those of strangers?

Would you sooner believe people living in some far-away place than citizens of your own city?

We think not for home proof can easily be investigated.

Curtis Johnson, of 583 Bishop street, freight truckman, says: "I had backache and lameness across my loins for a year or more. At times the lameness was so acute I could lift nothing and if I stooped it was impossible for me to straighten. When driving there was a steady aching over my kidneys the whole time and I had a dull tired feeling which took away all my ambition. I procured Doan's Kidney Pills from F. Potts Green's drug store and they soon cured me from the whole combination of troubles and they did it quickly and thoroughly. My wife was also suffering from a tired, grinding backache and she used Doan's Kidney Pills and they invigorated her generally. She now speaks of them as highly as I do. We never came across any remedy which surpassed Doan's Kidney Pills."

Fire at Woodward.

On Tuesday evening a fire occurred at Woodward that at one time threatened to destroyed the town. About half-past 9 o'clock fire was discovered in the barn belonging to Samuel Motz which in a short time was entirely consumed, together with its contents, consisting of two cows, hay, one buggy, one platform springwagon and farming implements. One of the cows was owned by Abram Treaster. No insurance.

The fire spread to the barn of James Weaver adjoining which was consumed together with a corn crib, pig pen, chicken house and about 100 chickens. Some farming tools were burned.

Mr. Weaver has $200 insurance on his property in the Grange company.

The large wagon shed belonging to the J. C. Motz estate was also burned together with a lot of farming tools belonging to C. W. Hosterman.

Thousands Have Kidney Trouble and Don't Know it.

How To Find Out.

Fill a bottle or common glass with your water and let it stand twenty-four hours; a sediment or settling indicates an unhealthy condition of the kidneys; if it stains your linen it is evidence of kidney trouble; too frequent desire to pass it or pain in the back is also convincing proof that the kidneys and bladder are out of order.

What to Do.

There is comfort in the knowledge so often expressed, that Dr. Kilmer's Swamp-Root, the great kidney remedy fulfills every wish in curing rheumatism, pain in the back, kidneys, liver, bladder and every part of the urinary passage. It corrects inability to hold water and scalding pain in passing it, or bad effects following use of liquor, wine or beer, and overcomes that unpleasant necessity of being compelled to go often during the day, and to get up many times during the night. The mild and the extraordinary effect of Swamp-Root is soon realized. It stands the highest for its wonderful cures of the most distressing cases. If you need a medicine you should have the best. Sold by druggists in 50c. and $1. sizes.

You may have a sample bottle of this wonderful discovery and a book that tells more about it, both sent absolutely free by mail, address Dr. Kilmer & Co., Binghamton, N. Y. When writing mention reading this generous offer in this paper.

A Nervous Woman

Will often feel compelled to stop the clock whose ticking seems unbearable to her. In such a nervous condition the woman needs a building up of the entire system. It is useless to attempt the cure of the nerves while the cause of the nervousness remains uncured. A very common cause of nervousness in women is a diseased condition of the delicate womanly organism.

Dr. Pierce's Favorite Prescription cures womanly diseases and the nervousness which they cause. It changes irregularity to regularity, dries the drains which weaken women, heals inflammation and ulceration and cures female weakness. It is a perfect tonic and nervine, tranquilizing the nerves, promoting the appetite and inducing refreshing sleep.

"When I first wrote you I had been to three different doctors and two of them said I would never get better without going to the hospital for an operation," writes Mrs. Selma Erickson, of 496 Rice Street, St. Paul, Minn. "Was not able to do anything. If I would get up and walk to the kitchen and back I would have to lie in bed for a day or sometimes two days. Now I have used six bottles of Dr. Pierce's Favorite Prescription and six of the 'Golden Medical Discovery,' and the result is just wonderful. I was so nervous I had to have some one by my side all the time even in day time, and I could hardly eat anything. I took treatment from a doctor twice a week, and every time I would go there I felt so sick, but since I quit all the doctors and began taking your medicines I gained right along. I weighed 125 pounds, when I began taking your medicines (in August) and now I am up to my usual weight 165. I am as well and feel as good as ever."

Rubber Heels For Students.

With the opening of the new school year in western Iowa a crusade in behalf of rubber heels for school children will be started, and the movement promises to spread over the state and find ready indorsement in the hundreds of schools of Iowa, says an Iowa Falls (Ia.) dispatch. It is maintained by those back of this innovation that such a move is essential if order and quietude are maintained in the schoolrooms during school hours. The movement seems popular wherever it has been introduced, and aside from the noise and commotion that are avoided by the change the saving to the general system of the student is a big item, as it does away with the jar usual with the leather heel.

BRITISH OFFER TO THE ZIONISTS

Features of Territory Tendered For Jewish Settlement.

A HEALTHY AND FERTILE REGION

Sir Harry Johnston Regards the Uganda Plateau as Unparalleled in Tropical Africa—Well Watered and Covered With Noble Forests—Climate Favorable to White Men.

When the British government recently offered the Zionist conference at Basel so considerable a stretch of territory in east Africa for Jewish settlement it volunteered to give away one of the most remarkable as well as one of the most interesting tracts of land in the world today, says a special cable dispatch from London to the Philadelphia Press. The great plateau of the Uganda region is not only one of the very few in all Africa where white men may live and prosper, but it is a land as well which is both inviting in all those respects which should make life worth living, and abounding, too, in much of the mystery and glamour which have for so long hung over the central stretches of the dark continent.

The Victoria Nyanza region, where the Nile takes its birth, lies 3,820 feet above sea level, a land remarkable for its forests and plains and unique in its Mau escarpment, a mighty stone wall thrown up by nature with a regularity almost as marked as though it were man made, which faces upon a sunken valley, called "The Great Rift." About this rise mighty mountains, which are almost beyond question those which figured in the geographical stories of the ancients as "the Mountains of the Moon."

When, even in comparatively modern times, the coast lands of Africa had been opened up by discovery and no mountains of any unusual size had been found it was affirmed that these Mountains of the Moon could have existed only in the imaginations of those who first wrote of them. But the geography of today has found in such peaks as Mount Kenia and Mount Kilimanjaro, which rise 18,000 and 19,000 feet above the surrounding country, full warrant for all stories of the past.

CASTORIA.

Bears the Signature of Chas. H. Fletcher. The Kind You Have Always Bought

Sir Harry Johnston, who undoubtedly knows more of the Uganda region than any other man living, in his report on the country made as special commissioner for the Uganda protectorate describes it as unparalleled in tropical Africa. He declares it to be admirably watered, fertile and cool, covered with noble forests and but sparsely inhabited. He adds that it is quite as healthy for Europeans as Great Britain itself. A very interesting feature of his report has to do with the various vegetable growths of the country, which would seem to be remarkable for the size they assume. Plants which in the temperate zone are properly regarded as small attain in the Uganda a growth many times that which is characteristic of them in lands farther north.

As for the people—and, one might also say, "as for the neighbors which the Jews will find awaiting them"—they make up in peculiarities what they may lack in numbers. The tract of territory which has been offered by Great Britain is perhaps 200 miles long by 90 or 100 miles in width. In that there are now living seven distinct tribes of African natives, one of them already in a state of some civilization, but the other six characteristically barbarous, though Sir Harry Johnston is the authority for the statement that all of the them are well disposed toward the white man and willing to study and imitate his ways. The Baganda people wear European clothes—that is, Turkish garments—and most of them speak a little French or English. The other peoples of the region still go in the state of undress so long associated with African natives.

Probably the strangest of the tribes are the Kaviron idos, whose cannibal traditions still prompt them to file their teeth to needle-like points, and the famous Kiagwe dwarfs, a tribe of diminutive hunters which wanders over the greater part of eastern Africa between the Victoria Nyanza and the vicinity of the Indian ocean.

Queen Lou.

What makes the cloud of dust arise across the yellow track?
What is it in the midst that moves with speed that doesn't slack?
Why do the people crane their necks? Why do their eyeballs flash?
What is the noise of breaking things? It's records gone to smash!
For Dillon, great Lou Dillon, makes them wonder where they're at
By circling round the magic course in just two minutes flat!

Lou Dillon, Louie Dillon, you're the greatest of 'em all!
You knocked the props from under and you gave 'em such a fall!
You clinched your fame forever as around the course you flew.
Lou Dillon, Louie Dillon, here's a double health to you!

THE BERLINER AIR SHIP.

Inventor Preparing to Test Enlarged Model of His Aeroplane.

Emile Berliner of Washington will test in a few weeks an enlarged model of his flying machine, which is now being built in his laboratory in Columbia road, says the New York Herald. The tail of the machine will be larger in proportion to the body than in the machine which was tested on Aug. 19, and the three cylinders will be placed some distance apart rather than near together, as in the old machine.

"The two most original ideas embodied in our models are the incline at the end of the cylinders and the application of the large tail," said Edgar Berliner, son of the inventor. "The pressure of compressed air against this incline and against the tail is what raises the machine so successfully. By means of the tail it will also be possible to guide the machine. The tail will consist of plates which close over each way and can be adjusted so as to regulate the movements of the machine. An adjustment of the tail will also make it possible for the machine to descend, something like a parachute, to the ground. At present we are experimenting with propellers of various sorts to take the place of the skyrockets which have been used in propelling our models."

The Berliner model tried on Aug. 19 is seven feet long. It consists of three aluminium troughs arranged side by side and inverted. There are five and a half feet long and open at the front to admit air freely. One foot from the rear end they begin to incline and slope down to the tail, which is made of pieces of tin one and a half feet long. The horizontal area of the machine is thirty square feet, and it weighs, together with the ballast which it carries to represent the cage and person of a completed machine, about thirty-four pounds. Oak rods and metal tubing are used in fastening the main parts of the machine together.

The two skyrockets which sent the machine through the air for fifty feet at a uniform distance of three and a half feet from the ground weighed two pounds each. They were fastened just above the tail. Ballast was suspended from the aluminium portion near the tail. Here the propelling machinery will probably be suspended when a machine is constructed of sufficient size to carry an operator.

There are no wings of any sort to the machine.

Power Without Water or Coal.

A new motive power has been discovered by S. F. Stearns, the inventor, who is now in New York putting in a plant which it is claimed will reduce the cost of generating power 40 per cent, says a Joplin (Mo.) dispatch. In its operation there is no need for coal, boilers or water. The power is said to be supplied by some sort of combustion which, properly distributed, will do the work. Mr. Stearns has interested with him in the enterprise J. A. Hardy, a millionaire mine owner of Webb City, and F. M. Cummings of Joplin. One of the devices was recently installed in a big mining plant near Joplin and is said to be a success.

The Woman's Century.

Many prophets have been saying that this will be the woman's century. At any rate, it looks as if the old maid would disappear before its close. The belles of a generation or two ago were sixteen or eighteen years old, and a woman of twenty-five was regarded as hopelessly stranded if no man had won her. Today the unmarried women do not begin to call themselves "bachelor maids"—the most recent euphemism for "old maid"—until they are past thirty.

A Hint Regarding Big Dinners.

When a woman is giving a big dinner party she seldom thinks of getting some of the dishes cooked and ready the day before and so lightening the work. Soups, gravies and sweets are usually better if made the day before. The wise mistress will give her cook the bill of fare a day or two ahead.

REV. T. E. CLAPP.

Death of a Prominent Minister—A Native of Old Centre and Well Known Here.

Many of our readers were acquainted with Rev. T. E. Clapp and we therefore give space to the following account of his death which we take from a recent issue of the Lewisburg Chronicle.

The Rev. Theophilus Eaton Clapp, D. D., died of appoplexy, at his home in Syracuse, N. Y., August 12, in his 60th year. His remains were interred in the Lewisburg cemetery Saturday evening, in the presence of his family and friends from Syracuse, Williamsport and Lewisburg.

Dr. Clapp was well known to many of our older citizens, having come from his Bellefonte home to the University in 1860 and graduated from the college in 1865, and from the Theological Department in 1867. The year 1862-3 he spent in the service of his country, being a member of Co. H, 15th Pa. Cavalry, the "Anderson Light Horse." During his last year in Lewisburg he taught in the Academy.

Dr. Clapp was for 11 years the successful pastor of the First Baptist church of Williamsport, and, for several years, of the Central Baptist Church, Syracuse, N. Y. He was subsequently pastor of Congregational churches at Syracuse, N. Y.; Portland, Oregon; Manchester, N. H. More recently he has been engaged in the work of the Anti-Saloon League in New York State, residing successfully at Albany, Brooklyn and again at Syracuse.

Dr. Clapp was a brilliant conversationalist, an eloquent preacher, a devoted pastor, and an enthusiastic worker in every good cause. His tireless energy permitted no resting from toils that proved too severe for his strength. He died in the harness. His work is of the kind that abides.

Dr. Clapp was married to Miss Caroline Chamberlin, member of a prominent Lewisburg family, who, with a son, Horace, a successful journalist in Manchester, N. H., and a daughter Mary, a teacher in Brooklyn N. Y., survives him.

—The wedding of Mr. Will Katz and Miss Sallie Baum is announced to take place on Wednesday September 16th. The wedding is to be a quiet home affair with only a few guests present owing to the recent death of the brides mother.

A PHYSICIAN HEALED.

Dr. Geo. Ewing, a practicing physician of Smith's Grove, Ky., for over thirty years, writes his personal experience with Foley's Kidney Cure: "For years I had been greatly bothered with kidney and bladder trouble and enlarged prostrate glands. I used everything known to the profession without relief, until I commenced to use Foley's Kidney Cure. After taking three bottles I was entirely relieved and cured. I perscribe it now daily in my practice and heartily recommend its use to all physicians for such troubles. I have perscribed it in hundreds of cases with perfect success." C. M. Parrish.

THE DEMOCRATIC PLAN OF CAMPAIGN.

The Democratic papers are beginning to waken from a long sleep and are giving their readers a taste of what promises to be their method during the next campaign.

Without the semblance of leadership, that can be dignified by such a name, and with little chance of any prominent man standing ready to sacrifice himself in a forlorn hope the party organs have settled down to a campaign of abuse.

It is the method they have persistently followed from one defeat to another, filling in the intervals between the successive campaigns with futile complaints or sullen silence.

The magnificent work of Mr. Root in reorganizing the army system and his management of our colonies, for which he would have gained honor and praise without stint from a united people of any other nation, is made light of and its results deliberately falsified by the Democratic papers.

The work of our navy, the maintenance of which is the absolute safeguard of our coasts and without which we could be treated with contempt by other nations, is belittled in every way.

What would these same papers have said if the report of the assassination of one of our consuls in the Turkish dominions had been true and the navy had not been brought into proper condition by maneuvers and careful training to enforce our demands.

They sneer at President Roosevelt, whose energy has enlivened every branch of the public service, thrust their peevish complaints at his most competent advisers, and what do they offer in their place? Cleveland, Hill and Bryan have been repudiated not only by the people at large but by these same wiseacres, while Gorman or Parker would put half of them again in the Populistic camp.

If they are anything but iconoclasts let them offer stones fit for the building before suggesting any changes in one of the best and most efficient administrations we have ever enjoyed.

REPUBLICAN FLAG UP

State Committee Headquarters Opened For the Campaign.

WANT THE VOTERS TO QUALIFY

Citizens Who Pay Taxes This Year Will Be Qualified to Vote at Next Year's Presidential Election.

[Special Correspondence.]

Philadelphia, Sept. 8. — With the opening of the headquarters of the Republican state committee in this city yesterday, the campaign for the election of the nominees on the state ticket will be prosecuted with renewed activity.

Much preliminary work had already been done through the correspondence conducted by Secretary Wesley R. Andrews from Meadville, where he was engaged most of the summer keeping in touch with the chairmen of the county committees and others who take an interest in the affairs of the Republican organization.

Senator Penrose, chairman of the state committee, is now on his way home from British Columbia, where he spent his vacaation, and until he reaches here Secretary Andrews will be the acting chairman. An efficient corps of assistants have been put to work and every department at the headquarters has already been organized and gotten under way.

PREPARE FOR NEXT YEAR.

It is not anticipated that there will be much of a demand for meetings before October, but the voters of the state will be enlightened in other ways as to the issues of the campaign and the importance of there being a large Republican vote polled at the coming election. The committeemen throughout the state were industrious in their efforts to get the Republicans of their respective precincts registered before the last day for registration expired, and they are now engaged in canvassing to inquire as to the voters who have not qualified themselves to vote at the November election by the payment of taxes.

In this state, in order for a citizen to be qualified to vote he must have paid a state or county tax within two years. Secretary Andrews states that unusual efforts will be taken this year to get the committeemen to see to it that the Republican voters are all qualified. Taxes paid this year will qualify voters for the presidential election, so that any work done now by the committeemen in this direction will be effective for the campaign for the election of Roosevelt next year.

Reports so far received from county chairmen are of the most encouraging character, and they lead the state managers to look for very satisfactory returns on election night.

MANY DEMOCRATS DISGUSTED.

From every quarter of the commonwealth come reports that conservative and substantial members of the Democracy are disgusted with the exhibition given by their party at the state convention held at Harrisburg last week. They had hoped to have the Democracy of Pennsylvania take its natural place in the cause of sound money and offset the radical Bryanite declarations of the Democratic convention held in Ohio a few days before, where there was an unqualified endorsement of the Kansas City platform. The Pennsylvania Democratic leaders, however, refused to listen to the advice of men of prominence and influence in professional and business life, who declined to follow the free silver and anarchistic policies of Bryan. They declined to come out boldly for a hard dollar in their national organization and an absolute repudiation of Bryanism in every form.

Guffey is too close to the Bryan ring in the Democratic national committee to permit anything of that sort, so that all suggestions for the turning down of Bryanism were brushed aside. The result is that thousands of the best element among the Pennsylvania Democrats will refuse to support the ticket nominated last week at Harrisburg and will either not vote at all or will make their protest most effective by voting the entire Republican ticket.

The Democracy of Pennsylvania seems to be going from bad to worse. Republican county leaders say that if the feeling of disgust among the sound money Democrats now manifested everywhere continues until election day, the Republican candidates on both state and county tickets will be the gainers by many thousands of votes.

Sound money Democrats appreciate that while Guffey failed to size up to the situation and put the party in this state on record against a reiteration of the free silver plank at the next national convention, they can enter an emphatic protest against this omission by supporting the Republican nominees on the state ticket who stand upon a platform for sound money and protection to American industries.

The Republican state convention, recognizing this canvass as preliminary to the national campaign of next year, went squarely on record on the national issues which should naturally be made prominent at this time.

As the date for the holding of the convention of the State League of Republican Clubs at Wilkesbarre draws near club members through the state are manifesting more interest in this event. The convention will assemble on Tuesday, the 22d inst., and many Republicans of prominence have agreed to be present.

SOLDIER AND JURIST

Interesting Career of Judge Thomas A. Morrison.

ON REPUBLICAN STATE TICKET

Candidate For the Superior Court, Who Has Fought Bravely For the Flag and Honored the Bench On Which He Has Served.

[Special Correspondence.]

Harrisburg, Sept. 8.—In view of the fact that neither of the Republican candidates for the superior court will appear on the stump in the campaign this fall to speak for himself, citizens of Pennsylvania will naturally be interested in reviewing the careers of these nominees.

Thomas Anderson Morrison, of Smethport, McKean county, Pa., one of the Republican candidates for the superior court, was born in Pleasantville, Venango county, Pa., May 4, 1840. His paternal grandparents come from the north of Ireland, locating in Centre county, where his father, William Morrison, was born in 1804. William Morrison finally located at Pleasantville and became a leading farmer. His mother was Elizabeth McMaster, of Scotch descent.

Judge Morrison received a common school and academic education at Pleasantville and a course at the Pennsylvania State Normal School of Edinboro, and a partial course at Poughkeepsie, N. Y. Later he taught school occasionally.

A BRAVE SOLDIER.

In July, 1862, he enlisted as a private in Company A, 121st Pennsylvania Volunteers, and while serving at the front lost his left arm at the shoulder joint and received a severe wound in the left knee at Fredericksburg, Va., December 13, 1862. After lying in a shelter tent near Fredericksburg for two weeks after the battle he was removed to Washington and spent the winter of 62-63 in Armory Square Hospital, being unable to walk until the next spring. In April, 1863, he was discharged and returned to Pleasantville, and in 1864 and 1865 held the office of justice of the peace in that place. He was treasurer of Venango county in 1868 and 1869. Later he was deputy internal revenue collector at Oil City and connected with the editing and publishing of a newspaper at that place.

Afterwards he engaged in business and read law, and in 1876 was admitted to the bar. He practiced his profession at Pleasantville until 1879, when he removed to Smethport, where he was engaged in a successful practice until September, 1887, when he was appointed by Governor Beaver judge of the 48th district, composed of McKean and Potter counties. In November of the same year he was elected to the same judicial office for 10 years. So satisfactory was his term of service that in 1897 he was accorded unanimous nomination by his party in both counties, and in November following was re-elected for another term of ten years.

During Judge Morrison's second term Mc Kean county was made a separate judicial district, and on September 10, 1901, he was commissioned president judge of the 48th district, composed of the county of McKean. The judge served on the bench until December, 1902, when he was appointed judge of the superior court by Governor Stone to fill the vacancy caused by the retirement of Judge John I. Mitchell. On December 30, 1902, he was commissioned as a judge of the superior court until the first Monday of January, 1904.

Judge Morrison is now one of the nominees of the Republican party for judge of the superior court for the full term of ten years from the last mentioned date.

During the 15 years of his service on the common pleas bench he established a reputation for prompt, efficient and fearless discharge of duty. He enjoys the distinction of never having been compelled to adjourn court for a single day on account of sickness during nearly 16 years of service. He has never missed a session of the superior court since his appointment.

Judge Morrison has been an earnest Republican from his boyhood days, and never neglected voting for a Republican candidate for president, nor for a governor or any other important candidate of his party except in the fall of 1862, while he was at the front.

While the judge has not been an active partisan since he went upon the bench, yet he has been well known as an earnest supporter of the principles and policies of the Republican party.

ETERNAL VIGILANCE THE KEY TO SUCCESS.

It is perhaps a little early to expect the voters to take much interest in an off year campaign, but the REPUBLICAN would like to call the attention of its readers to the fact that Chairman Reeder is already hard at work on the coming Fall campaign.

It is the duty of each District Committeeman to second the Chairman's efforts by prompt reports on the matters called to their attention.

An off year election is just as important to the organization of a political party as a presidential one. To get the vote out properly at each election the organization must be kept intact and in good working order each year.

A Republican majority in Centre county this year means an overwhelming one next year, when so many important offices are to be voted for, while inaction on the part of the workers and a general loss of interest will materially aid the Democrats in getting their vote out.

If the District Chairmen, their Vigilance Committees and the well known workers in each precinct stand together and work together, furnish proper and complete information to the County Chairman and his Committee, whereby they can be in shape to take the most efficient steps toward getting out the vote this year Centre county will stay in the Republican column where she belongs.

Her Birthday Anniversary.

A very pleasant birthday anniversary was celebrated on Saturday at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Clement Dale on North Allegheny street. Sunday, September 6th, being the twelfth birthday of Marion Ethel, their bright and interesting little daughter, her parents invited about a dozen of her classmates and playmates to their home, from 4 until 8 o'clock.

Promptly the young folks arrived in their prettiest white gowns, and fun and frolic held full sway. Games were played, songs sung and good things to eat provided in abundance.

At 8:30 each little guest bade their young hostess good-night, wishing her many happy returns of the day, and each one feeling the time had passed merrily and happily away.

Those present were Misses Rebecca Valentine, Grace Cook, Marion Lingle, Janet Potter, Ann Lyon, Catherine Allison, Lucretia Williams, Ellen Hayes, of Bellefonte, and Rebecca Jacobs, of Mifflintown.

Excursion tickets, good to return by regular trains within ten days, will be sold via the Delaware River Bridge Route the only all-rail line, or via Market Street Wharf, Philadelphia.

Stop over can be had at Philadelphia, either going or returning, within limit of ticket.

For information in regard to specific rates and time of trains consult hand bills, or apply to agents, or E. S. Harrar, Division Ticket Agent, Williamsport, Pa.

Hemming the Napery.

The French hem, or the "damask stitch," will be found most satisfactory for the hemming of table linen. This differs from the ordinary hemming stitch in the way in which it is sewed. Turn the hems same as for ordinary hemming, then fold the hems back and overhand or over and over stitch them. By this manner, when the linen is laundered, it will be very difficult to see a right or wrong side. For napkins the hems should be made narrow as possible, and for tablecloths they should be from a quarter to half an inch in width, but the narrow width is preferable. Only the best grade of linen should be bought if possible. It lasts longer, and the more frequently it is laundered, if done carefully at home, the more beautiful and smooth the surface becomes.

Railways Plant Trees.

A number of western railways have found that the growing of trees along the right of way is profitable, both for ties and snow breaks, and are setting out millions of cuttings.

The Uses of Charcoal.

All sorts of glass vessels and other utensils can be purified by rinsing them well with charcoal powder. Rubbing the teeth and washing out the mouth with fine charcoal powder will beautify the former and purify the breath.

Putrid water can be immediately deprived of its bad smell by charcoal, and a few pieces of charcoal placed on meat, fish, etc., that are beginning to spoil will preserve them and absorb all the strong odors. A tablet of willow charcoal taken twice daily will purify the stomach and aid digestion.—American Queen.

GRAND BEYOND DESCRIPTION.

The Wallace Circus Holds Full Sway in Bellefonte.

The long looked for Wallace circus arrived in Bellefonte at 5:30 o'clock Tuesday morning from Altoona, where they performed to 20,000 people on Monday.

It is one of the cleanliest circuses ever in Bellefonte. Not an improper word could be heard spoken by the vast number of workingmen who were unloading the cars and putting up the canvas. Although the weather was inclement it had no effect on the country folk, as they had made up their minds to come, rain or shine, and so they did. By the time the magnificent parade started the streets were lined with a surging throng of people eager to see the large open cages containing lions, tigers, bears, seals, snakes and many other startling, frightful animals too numerous to mention. But to tell it all in a nut-shell, it was simply grand beyond description.

After the parade the people wended their way to the circus grounds at the glass works meadow, where acres of ground were covered by the mammoth tents. On entering, the first amazing thing that met your eyes was the wonderful menagerie composed of the most valuable species of wild beasts known to any human being. The Great Wallace Circus certainly has the rarest collection of wild animals ever seen in Bellefonte.

From the menagerie the throng moved into the wonderfully large performing tent, and for two hours one magnificent performance after another was enacted, and among some of the most interesting was Captain Owen Hudgen with his troop of performing seals and sea lions, playing all kinds of musical instruments; doing the balancing and juggling acts, which were something marvelous.

The performance of the Herac family of acrobats, consisting of seven people, has never been equaled in our city. All their acts are gone through with in full evening dress.

Four Nelsons, comedy acrobats, namely, "Alphonse," "Gaston," "Dude" and the "Irish policeman." Their work is full of comedy and laughable parts. The Marion Zouaves, composed of sixteen people in their fancy military drill. The four Colins' in their original dancing acts.

Four Silvertons in their fancy high-wire performances. Three Nevaros in their head and hand balancing acts, and the ever-popular Stirk family in their bicycling performances, and lastly the wonderful breathless hippodrome races. One would naturally think these horses and performers would be killed from the manner in which they travel around that ring.

A FEW NOTES IN PASSING

The circus carries with them 700 people.

They serve 2100 meals a day.

They have 400 head of draft horses, 128 Shetland ponies and 40 ring horses.

Eight hundred pounds of bread and ninety gallons of milk are used a day, and two car loads of meat a week.

For their stock it requires 12 tons of hay, 1 ton of bran, 2 tons of straw and 400 bushels of oats a day.

Sheffer & Son furnished the groceries for the circus people.

The Deacon Went Astray.

A country newspaper man had become disgusted with the favoritism shown to the great people of the earth, not only while they are in the full strength of years, but even when they commence to shuffle off this mortal coil, when hourly or half hourly bulletins are issued giving the fluctuating condition and strength of the thread of life of the distinguished or august personage as the case may be.

Now, he thought an ordinary citizen of the community was entitled to as much consideration in this respect as is the greatest person on earth.

So, when Deacon Hardshell fell suddenly ill, our rural editor commenced to issue bulletins of the sick man's condition, something like this:

4 P. M.—Deacon Hardshell taken suddenly ill.

5 P. M.—Deacon Hardshell no better.

6 P. M.—Deacon Hardshell resting easier.

8 P. M.—Deacon Hardshell has taken a turn for the worse.

9 P. M.—Consultation of the doctors over Deacon Hardshell.

10 P. M.—Doctors will give opinion later.

11 P. M.—No hopes are held out for Deacon Hardshell's recovery.

12 P. M., midnight.—Deacon Hardshell died and went to Heaven.

This, of course, ended the newspaper man's bulletins, but a man who was out late, added another which the people read on the bulletin board as they were going out early in the morning as follows:

4 A. M.—Great excitement in Heaven—Deacon Hardshell has not arrived.

—For forty years Dr. Fowler's Extract of Wild Strawberry has been curing summer complaint, dysentery, diarrhoea, bloody flux, pain in the stomach, and it has never yet failed to do everything claimed for it.

The Lehigh was beaten badly very badly by the Railroader's but the way Kelley's men were knocked about the field showed either very bad playing on their part or very good judgement in Capt. The Pouting Habit.

Girls, you who indulge in the cute little pouting habit, remember that it is very important that the features should be trained to composure and all grimacing habits avoided. Lines are deepened by contorting the face into ugly and ludicrous shapes, when exposed to a strong light, for example, a habit which can be overcome by a little thought and effort. Many young people have a disagreeable fashion of frowning and scowling, and as they grow older the creases thus formed become fixed. Those lines are not immediately apparent on a youthful face, for the skin is elastic. In later years the elasticity is lost and expressions oft repeated form permanent folds in the skin.—New Orleans Times-Democrat.

Words From an Old Adviser.

In an old fashioned book of recipes it is written: "A woman's hair should smell only sweeter than her skin and her skin only fresher than her breath. To insure this should be her daily care, for a woman who looks not altogether lovely belies the purpose for which nature created her. Therefore if ye would be ever fresh and dainty in your toilet keep upon your table a bottle of myrrh with which to freshen your mouth, a bottle of benzoin to sprinkle in the washing water and a bottle of lavender water with which to dampen your hair."

The Plain Girl.

The plain girl must be immaculately neat in her dress always. A wisp of hair out of place, which would perhaps only enhance the attractions of a genuinely pretty woman, becomes rank untidiness when seen on a plain one. A hat a little to one side will give a dainty, impudent air to the one; in the other it merely looks as if put on in a slovenly fashion. And so it is all along the line. Let neatness be your watchword, plain girls, if you would make a social and perhaps, later on, a matrimonial success for yourselves.

Dinner Place Cards.

An effective place card is made of heavy water color paper cut in the form of a quaint church tower with open belfry, in which hangs a real bell, very tiny, but having a silvery tinkle which resounds when the card is moved about. The tower is painted in water colors to imitate stonework, and a vine is shown climbing over the moss grown stones. Sometimes one of the old "mission" towers of California is shown on a place card such as this, or else an ancient ivy grown belfry of English origin.

She Plans Houses.

The only woman ever admitted to the Master Carpenters' association is Miss Louise Catherine Hinck of Montclair, N. J. Miss Hinck is a graduate of Vassar and of the New York university law school, but she prefers to spend her time in putting up beautiful and convenient houses, and many of the most attractive homes in Montclair are of her designing. She thinks that women can do this work much better than men, and the women who live in her houses are of the same opinion.

Aspic Jelly.

A quart of aspic jelly may be made of one and a half pints of bright consomme, half a box of gelatin, the white of one egg, half a cup of cold water, two cloves, one slice of onion, twelve peppercorns, one stalk of celery and a saltspoonful of salt. Soak the gelatin for two hours in the cold water. Put the other ingredients over the fire and simmer for twenty minutes after they boil. Add the melted gelatin and strain the whole through a napkin into a mold or dish to harden. Sometimes the juice of half a lemon is added to this jelly.

Luncheon Sets.

Delft blue linen worked in white makes lovely luncheon sets. Quite the smartest thing in table linen is the old fashioned Irish linen, smooth and glossy of surface, stiff, but thin. Russian and cluny laces are much used and are very effective.

A New Type of Collier.

The value of colliers to accompany fleets in time of war was thoroughly demonstrated during the Spanish war. Germany at the recent maneuvers along the Spanish coast experimented with coaling at sea, and now the British admiralty is considering plans for an entirely new type of collier. The proposed vessel is 550 feet long, 66 feet wide, with a draft of 27 feet when carrying 10,000 tons of coal. The most teresting fact about it is that the plans call for a speed of eighteen knots, or as high as that of the latest battle ships. The estimated cost of these ships is $1,250,000, which will include patent apparatus for unloading them at sea.

Cultivate a Still Tongue.

If women would only bear in mind that they may need the world's good word themselves some day they would be more careful in what they say and how they say it. Charity is of thought as well as deed. It is not restricted to the feeding of the hungry and the clothing of the poor. It is as much needed among the rich as among any other class. The woman who would be a pattern of her sex will cultivate a still tongue. If she would be a blessing to humanity she will temper justice with mercy, and, above all, she will keep her verdicts to herself when she sits in judgment on her friends.

Old Lace.

To clean and renovate lace so that it will look like new wash it in wood alcohol. The lace must not be rubbed at all nor doused up and down roughly, as it frequently tears simply from its own weight. The wood alcohol removes all the dirt and stains. When the alcohol is clear and the lace clean, stretch and pin the lace on the ironing board and leave it to dry. It must not be ironed. The effect of this on old discolored laces is remarkable, making them apparently brand new again.

Umbrella Draws Lightning Bolt.

During a recent thunderstorm at Newburg, N. Y., Mrs. Gottfried Griess, aged thirty-five, was instantly killed. The umbrella she held in her left hand had an iron rod, and the lightning passed through it. Her husband, aged fifty, and son, Gottfried Griess, Jr., aged ten, stood beside her. They became unconscious.

Bring Their County Convention to a Successful Close.

THE ATTENDANCE WAS LARGE

The People of Milesburg Extended Unbounded Hospitality to the Visitors Receiving Them With Open Arms.

FULL REPORT OF PROCEEDINGS

"In the secret of His presence,
How my soul delights to hide;
Oh, how precious are the lessons
That I learned at Jesus' side."

With that thought in mind the "Quiet Hour Service" began at 9 o'clock, conducted by Miss Nannie Fisher, of Unionville. It was a service full of the power of the Holy Spirit, as was manifested throughout the meeting. It spread a halo over the work of the whole convention. During this little service Rev. S. S. Bergen spoke on the subject "And truly our fellowship is with the Father, and with His Son, Jesus Christ." His talk was to the point and very interesting. The Quiet Hour service was followed by the convention sermon preached by Rev. Benjamin Gimmel, of Cresson, Pa. His subject was "We believe that thou art the Christ." It was a wonderful sermon, full of spiritual food and very instructive. It was the most interesting address made during the convention.

The reports from the county officers was the next business before the convention. In the secretary's report, which was very flattering, he stated that during the past year the County Union had contributed to Missions $130.74 and other benevolent objects $389.43. The number of active members in the county 707 and associate members 272.

The other reports all showed an increase in the work all over the county. The morning service closed with an open parliament, which proved very interesting as many spoke on subjects that were in some way a help to their societies.

At this point in our story of the convention we take pleasure in congratulating the members of the choir for their excellent singing and faithfulness during the convention. They were the following young ladies and gentlemen:

Organist—Miss Belle Wallace.
Leader of Choir—D. E. Woodring.
Misses Nellie Wallace, Mable Wagner, Sue Potter, Helen Potter, Alice Walters, Clara Aikens.

Messrs. Albert N. Bierly, Brinton Wallace, Irvin Noll, Charles Sheckler, Budd Woodring.

Those appointed on the committee on resolutions were as follows: H. G. Ebbs, Rev. Dr. Schuyler, H. M. Heberling, Mrs. Cook and Mrs. Alice Alexander.

Nominating committee—M. E. Heberling, Rev. Dr. Schuyler, Oran Grove and R. T. Bayard.

Thursday afternoon Miss Belle Wallace led the service of song and the singing was something marvelous, as the Master seemed to be showering his richest blessings upon the convention. The enthusiasm seemed to have reached a higher spiritual pitch and everyone in the large audience entered heart and soul into this service.

After the song service the business session was opened and reports from the different committees heard.

The committee on nominations reported that the old officers were recommended for re-election, with one exception, that of Secretary Frank Fisher, who will not be among the County Endeavorers another year. In his place Rev. D. A. Artman, of Howard, was elected.

In Mr. Fisher resigning the Christian Endeavor Union loses a splendid officer, one who has proven himself a faithful servant in the Master's work.

After the business was transacted Mr. Fisher, who was chairman of the meeting, introduced Rev. Luther DeYoe, of Dauphin county. Rev. DeYoe is a young minister, pastor of one of the largest Lutheran churches in Harrisburg. He has wonderful ability as a speaker, one who holds the attention of his audience for any length of time. He is chairman of the Junior C. E. Societies of Dauphin county, and his ideas in the work were worth their weight in gold to the Union.

The Junior Society of Milesburg took part in the afternoon exercises which were greatly enjoyed by all present.

A solo was rendered by Miss Lillie Sellers entitled "Come, Oh, Come With Thy Broken Heart." She possesses a rich, sweet soprano voice and deserves much praise for the manner in which she rendered her solo. It was a soul-inspiring sight to see these little children singing, reciting and, last but not least, rising to their feet and asking God to bless them and their society. The work of this Young People's Society of Juniors has been under the careful instruction of Mrs. Rose L. Bierly and Miss Kate Baldrige. It showed that a lot of hard work had been done to train these little people, and the ladies deserve a great deal of credit for the manner in which the little ones carried out their part of the program.

Rev. Wm. Laurie, D. D., LL. D., pastor of the Presbyterian church of Bellefonte, made an earnest prayer in behalf of the Young People's Christian Endeavor Society all over this broad land of ours, that much good might be accomplished in the Master's work.

The roll call, and then a report on the "Quiet Hour" work was read by Miss Nannie Fisher. "The best kind of an Endeavor," a paper read by Miss Florence Marshall, of Buffalo Run, was well prepared and read. Mr. Oran Grove, of Lemont, also read a paper which was listened to with great interest. The subject of his paper was "The Most Profitable Christian Endeavor Meeting."

An open parliament on "Christian Endeavor Work," conducted by Stanley Bergen, a student of Washington and Jefferson college, followed.

CLOSING SERVICES.

The church was crowded to the doors and standing room was at a premium, at the last session of the convention. The song service under the direction of Mr. Albert Bierly was full of old time songs, the kind that every one feels like singing, and everyone did sing just as heartily as they possibly could. At the opening of the service a beautiful selection entitled "Rock of Ages" was rendered by the following gentlemen Messrs. B. D. Woodring, Budd Woodring, Brinton Wallace, Charles Sheckler and Albert Bierly.

The song service which was soul inspiring, was brought to a close by the singing of "Labor On."

Rev. Luther DeYoe of Harrisburg delivered a most eloquent and fluent lecture on the "Acts of the Apostles." Rev. DeYoe is a most wonderful bible student and his subject was explained with the greatest of satisfaction, after his address "Blest be the tie that binds," was sung by the convention.

The Committee on Resolutions made the following report which was approved by the Union.

1st, We deeply regret that our faithful Cor. Secretary Frank P. Fisher, declines a re-election because of his contemplated removal from our County that he may prepare himself better for future usefulness.

Resolved, that the sincere and hearty thanks of the C. E. Union are due to him for the efficient manner in which he has discharged the duties of his office.

Resolved, that we very highly appreciate the kindly favor of the "Bellefonte Republican" in making a full and complete report of our proceedings.

Resolved, that the thanks of the convention be extended to the Presbyterian church of Milesburg, who have so kindly opened their doors for our use, the choir for their excellent music, the citizens for their kind hospitality and the ministers from without the county for their interesting and instructive addresses.

MRS. ALICE ALEXANDER,
H. G. EBBS,
DR. SCHUYLER,
MRS. C. W. COOK,
M. E. HEBERLING.

PRESENTATION OF THE BANNER.

The society having the largest delegation present was the Unionville Union, and the one having the largest per cent of its membership was the Lemont Presbyterian organization, in accepting the Banner Miss Sue Shipley of Unionville and Mr. John Bathgate made neat little addresses.

President Pratt announced the chairman of the different committees they are as follows.

Look out Committee—H. G. Ebbs, Centre Line; Miss Martha McKnight, Buffalo Run; Mr. Charles Gilmore, Bellefonte; Miss Mable Thompson, Lemont; Miss Minerve Rhinehart, Woodward; Mr. Oran Grove, Lemont.

Supt. Junior Work—Mrs. Rose Bierly, Milesburg.

Supt. Missionary Work—Mrs. M. B. Holtzworth, Unionville.

Supt. Quiet Hour Work—Miss Nannie Fisher, Unionville.

Addresses were made by nearly all of these faithful workers. A very pretty and impressive farewell address was made by Mr. Frank B. Fisher, the out going Secretary. After a few brief sentence prayers, the collection was lifted, and it looked as though the Milesburg people were not afraid to give their money to a good object, and then the delegates opened up, and threw in their dimes and quarters, after singing "Beautiful Light of God," the president announced that Rev. Crow, of Hublersburg was to have been present and speak on the subject of "The Badge we wear and why we wear it," but for some unavoidable reason he could not be present, and Rev. Shultz, the "boy preacher" pastor of the Evangelical church of Milesburg very kindly consented to act as a substitute, and was given the subject late in the day, but it seems as if he had had a hold of it for months for he delivered the address in a masterly manner.

CONSECRATION MEETING.

"All to Jesus I Surrender,
Make me Saviour, Wholly Thine.
Let me feel the Holy Spirit,
Truly know that thou art mine."

The beginning of the ending of one of the most successful and spiritual, Christian Endeavor Conventions ever held in Centre County was fast drawing to a close. The Lord Jesus Christ, had been with them throughout the entire meeting and manifested His Holy Spirit's wonderful power in all the sessions.

The consecration service was filled with good things for all who were present, for God's richest blessing seemed to rest upon this closing exercise. One after another would arise and re-consecrate themselves to their Lord and Master. It was indeed one grand, glorious experience meeting.

In closing our story we cannot help speaking of the kindness of the Milesburg people. They opened their homes, and took in the delegates and entertained them in royal style. We certainly did sympathize with the poor chickens, for a great many of them got it in the neck. The Reporter of the Republican was kindly entertained at the comfortable homes of Mr. and Mrs. Albert Bierly and Mr. and Mrs. Frank Wallace Sr. To them we extend our sincere thanks.

The Convention closed and by noon Friday the delegates had all gone to their several homes.

We failed to mention elsewhere in our story that the convention will be held next year in Centre Hall.

Mrs. Mott entertained in honor of Misses Louise Kehr, Eleanor Naughton, Nellie Kerringhan and Mary Nestor, all young ladies from Pittsburg who are visiting in our town. Miss Naughton is an elocutionist of remarkable ability and during the evening favored the gathering with several selections that brought down the house. The evening passed very pleasantly and everyone reports having had a most enjoyable time.

FEET SWOLLEN TO IMMENSE SIZE.

"I had kidney trouble so bad that I could not work," says J. J. Cox of valley View, Ky., my feet were swollen to immense size and I was confined to my bed and physicians were unable to give me any relief. My doctor finally prescribed Foley's Kidney Cure which made a well man of me. C. M. Parrish.

TO SNUFF VOLCANOES.

Startling Discovery Made by An Australian.

Volcanoes can easily be extinguished, says the New York Herald. A New Zealand man claims (and there are many who agree with him) to have discovered a liquid by means of which volcanoes may be extinguished quickly whether active or threatening.

Many diseases of the human body act in the same manner as volcanoes. Dyspepsia, Rheumatism, Kidney Disorders, Female Diseases and many others all begin with a slight rumble of pain and distress, and if not treated in time will burst forth in all their fury, causing all who are so afflicted the most intense suffering and making life a complete burden.

That a liquid has been discovered that will extinguish these volcanic eruptions of disease, whether active or threatening, is not only certain but a material fact.

DR. DAVID KENNEDY'S FAVORITE REMEDY is this liquid discovery. THE WONDERFUL CURATIVE powers of this famous remedy have cut a new path through the field of medicine, sweeping with it a startling record of tremendous success.

Druggists sell it in New 50 Cent Size and the regular $1.00 size bottles.

BEIRUT A THRIVING CITY.

Chief Seaport of Syria and Religious and Educational Center.

Beirut (or Beyrut, as it is sometimes spelled), the scene of the Turkish trouble, is the chief seaport of Syria and one of the most thriving cities in Asiatic Turkey, says the Chicago News. The old town is badly built and unattractive, but many of the suburbs contain handsome residences. There are numerous European business houses, schools and churches in the city.

The industrial and commercial growth of Beirut has been rapid of late years. Its chief manufactures are silk and cotton fabrics and gold and silver articles. The surrounding country yields large quantities of silk, cotton and tobacco, much of which is exported. The principal articles of import are food stuffs and wearing apparel. Though the harbor is deficient in size and depth, compelling larger vessels to anchor outside, regular steam communication is had with Great Britain, Austria-Hungary and other countries of Europe. The coastwise trade is in the hands of the Turks.

Beirut is the seat of many religious dignitaries, including a Greek bishop, a Maronite archbishop and a papal delegate. There are twenty-three mosques and thirty-eight Christian churches of various denominations, the chief mosque being an old church built by the crusaders. Educational institutions are numerous, most of them being maintained by the missions, the French taking the lead. America is represented by the Syrian Protestant college.

The climate of the city is considered healthful, and the water supply is good, making it a favorite place of residence for Europeans engaged in business in that part of the world. About 4,500 live there at present. The total population of Beirut is estimated at 120,000, of which about 30 per cent is Mohammedan.

TO LESSEN CONSUMPTION.

French Government's Plan to Eradicate the Disease.

The French government has recently taken preventive measures in the schools which will at some time practically stamp out consumption in France if they are persisted in, says World's Work for September. The pupils are examined every three months, and their physical condition with reference to the danger of consumption is entered on their reports. No carpets are allowed in schoolrooms, and no dry sweeping is permitted; the furniture is regularly washed; books are regularly disinfected; promiscuous use of penholders and pencils is forbidden—every pupil must have his own, and they are advised to keep them out of their mouths.

In boarding schools a severer routine is prescribed, and consumptive pupils are to be kept from school. Such a system as this, if it be carried out, would in a generation or two make consumption quite as rare as smallpox.

NOVEL STRIKE TREATMENT.

Pictures, Sculpture and Music Recommended by an Educator.

Professor John Quincy Adams of the University of Pennsylvania, who is lecturing at the University of Chicago, proposes pictures, objects of art and music in the factories as the means of soothing discontented labor, says the New York Tribune. He said in a lecture:

"On the walls of a factory hang a dozen pictures by the old masters, interspersed with masterpieces of statuary culled from the gems of the world's famous sculptors. Mix in one band stand, secure a score of leather lunged musicians and let them play vigorously."

Professor Adams declares that thus cultivating the finer nature of the workmen would drive away all discontent and make them like their conditions better.

Novel Bridge For New York.

The new bridge that is to be built over the East river between the foot of Pike street, Manhattan, and Brooklyn is planned on unconventional lines, says Harper's Weekly. According to the plans of the bridge commissioner, the superstructure of the main spans is to be suspended from link, or eye bar, cables having fixed connections at the tops of the towers and at the anchorages. This will do away with the trusses that are used on most bridges for stiffening and at the same time will give ample strength to the structure. The elevated trains will run on tracks above the trolleys. The promenade will be on the outside of the roadway, while the driveway will occupy the center of the bridge. An unusual feature will be a large hall built inside of each anchorage, to be devoted to public use under the direction of the city officials.

Knew What a Bay Was.

One day a little girl in the fifth grade came home from school and told her mother she knew all about peninsulas, harbors, islands, etc.

"Well," said mother, "tell me what a bay is." The child could not answer this, and her little brother said:

"Why, don't you know what a bay is? A bay is a red horse."

THE GENUINE VS. COUNTERFEITS.

The genuine is always better than a counterfeit but the truth of this sstatement is never more forcibly realized or more thoroughly appreciated than when you compare the genuine DeWitt's Witch Hazel Salve with the many counterfeits and worthless substitutes that are on the market. W. S. Ledbetter, of Shreveport, La., says: "After using numerous other remedies without benefit, one box of DeWitt's Witch Hazel Salve cured me." For blind, bleeding, itching and protruding piles no remedy is equal to DeWitt's Witch Hazel Salve. Sold by Green's Pharmacy.

REPUBLIC LEAD & ZINC CO.

A Mining Proposition Which Interests Bellefonters.

LOCAL CAPITAL INVESTED IN IT

A Visit to Their Mine at Joplin, Mo., Interesting Description by One Who Inspected the Workings.

THEY HAVE AN OFFICE HERE

The Joplin Daily Globe gives an interesting account of a mine at Joplin, Missouri, in which Bellefonte capitalists are interested. It is in part as follows:

A visit was made to the mine of the Republic Zinc and Lead company Wednesday and several of the finest specimens of zinc, lead and calcite secured that can be found anywhere in the district. The Republic company's property is within the corporate limits of the city, on West Second street, and locally it is known as the Perry No. 3. The Republic company acquired the property last winter, since which time a large amount of the energy devoted to the mine has been directed toward development along lines that will prove of permanent advantage and essential to the betterment of the mine. Under the direction of Capt. Harry Williams, a practical superintendent of years of experience, the development while seemingly slow has been made as speedily as possible with the objective point looking to the future of the mine and placing it in a position to output steadily. Instead of gutting the mine to meet immediate dividends, as appearances indicate had been previously done, Captain Williams has worked for the permanency of the mine. This is amply proved by an inspection of the drifts, the condition and development of the ore shoots and the recent change of the mill from a platform to a hopper feed. While a great deal has been done there is still room for additional development work, all of which tends to prove the ore deposit of greater extent. Development work is not sufficiently ahead of actual mining operations and the company should for the good of the mine and the future of their resources urge rather than discourage additional development work. The writer does not know the policy of the company along this line and merely notes the truths as found to exist without favor or bias to any one.

The Republic Zinc and Lead company has a property that should live long in the outputting list and should make the stockholders steady returns upon their investment, but it is above all a mine in which an ample allowance for development work should be made, even at the temporary sacrifice of dividends, for it will fully repay such an outlay judiciously expended. The upshoot of the ore toward the west, has been a source of surprise and encouragement in its growing richness, in encountering pockets of free zinc and lead ore along with the disseminated class. From one of these pockets the writer secured a specimen of zinc and one of lead, said to be the finest ever taken from the mine. They are as fine as can be found in any mine, and the best of it is that they are each of their kind pure ore. The west drift has showed the ore shoot to raise about 100 feet on an angle of 45 degrees. Part of the ground raised over can be stoped in ore, to what depth yet remains to be ascertained, as the wisdom of the situation bids the upper stope be first removed and further developed. On this uprise the first lead of any moment was encountered, and there are appearances to indicate that this mineral will be much in evidence in a further development of this upper stope. This west drift is at present the richest in the mine and this is doubly encouraging as it is in the direction of the largest holdings of the company.

Robert F. Hunter of Bellefonte, Pennsylvania, one of the stockholders in the Republic Zinc and Lead company, accompanied the writer on his tour of inspection of the mine, and by his courtesy and that of Captain Williams and the ground foreman, George Hopkins, every facility was afforded for a complete and satisfactory inspection of the mine.

There is nothing flowery to be said about this mine, but as a business investment, managed and operated along economical business methods it should prove of value to its owners.

INTERESTING RELICS.

An Old Hotel Register Brought to Light—Many Names of Old Residents Thereon.

Two very interesting relics were found Thursday in the old Livingston building lately occupied by the Y. M. C. A., but now being overhauled to make a handsome home for Dr. M. J. Locke on North Allegheny street. One was the hotel register of the old Washington Hotel which our older residents say stood just where the First National Bank now stands and the other was an old grocery book. The register was for the year 1843 and the grocery book for the year 1839.

The books were found by John Sourbeck Jr., while at work digging out a cellar in the rear of the building. They were in good state of preservation and can be seen at Sourbeck's store. The hotel register contains the names of the elder generations of the Curtins, Potters, Boals, Harris and other old families besides many celebrities including Ex-Governor Bigler.

Dr. Fairlamb, Dr. Dobbins and several of our older citizens examined the register and could not find the names of a single one who is alive today.

The grocery book shows the difference in prices between 1839 and the present time.

George Armstrong was the landlord of the Washington Hotel in the year 1843.

These are valuable relics and we have no doubt Mr. Sourbeck will value them highly.

LESS LATIN, MORE COOKING

Professor In Northwestern University Says It Is Necessary.

To preserve "love's young dream" Horace Butterworth, professor of physical culture in the Northwestern university, near Chicago, would include housekeeping in the curriculums of modern universities, says the New York Press. He would teach the coeds how to cook and by so doing, he believes, work the greatest good for humanity.

The professor stated his views at a small gathering of professors and alumni of the university the other afternoon. His words caused much discussion and are likely to be warmly debated in Northwestern for some time to come. He said:

"The greatest flaw in the average wife today is her inability to cook appetizing food. I believe the modern university should include housekeeping in its curriculum. I would make such a course a required one for all women students. Poor cooking spoils love's young dream far oftener than a lack of sympathy or other faults credited to mankind. Northwestern could make no wiser move than to establish such a course of study during the summer months."

Mr. Butterworth denounced the present course of study which young women are forced to follow. He said:

"Too much Latin, Greek and higher mathematics are taught and too little of the more domestic arts the acquisition of which would tend to make her home life more enjoyable and happy when the pupil leaves the schoolroom. Girls should learn to cook. They should learn to cook well. It is more important to a girl and her domestic happiness than many of the more abstract studies which she spends years in acquiring."

MARCONIGRAM'S NEW USE.

Inventor Says Wireless Telegraph Will Save Explorers Being Lost.

"It will not be necessary in the future for arctic explorers to die from starvation because they are lost from civilization," said Signor Marconi the other day to a New York World reporter. He had just arrived on the Cunarder Lucania.

"By means of the wireless telegraph it will be very easy for an exploring party to keep in daily communication with their home people. Every arctic expedition hereafter probably will be equipped with a wireless telegraphic outfit. Should an explorer be so fortunate as to reach the north pole he can announce the fact at once to the civilized world. He can tell his friends at just what point he stands. If he is in need of supplies he can direct how these shall be forwarded to him and of what they shall consist. He can announce how long he can wait for the supplies to reach him and can direct his rescuers how to reach him.

"All that applies to the arctic explorer applies with equal truth to the explorer in the jungles of interior Africa and Australia. Had the wireless telegraph been invented in Dr. Livingstone's time it would not have been necessary to send Henry M. Stanley to Lake Tanganyika to find him. He would have been able to wire for help when he first fell a victim to the jungle fever. It is quite likely that future African explorers will consider a wireless telegraph equipment as necessary as a medicine chest."

FAMILY RE-UNION.

Mr. and Mrs. John Henry Fishburn Celebrated Fortieth Anniversary of Marriage.

A most delightful home gathering occurred on Saturday last when under the old home roof there were gathered the twelve children of J. Henry Fishburn and wife.

Nearly forty years ago Mr. and Mrs. Fishburn began their married life. Sixteen children were born to them of which number twelve are still living. These together with their families, including fourteen grand children made a most interesting group numbering thirty five. There were nine sons and three daughters present. The sons are all robust manly fellows and have an average weight of 187½ lbs and an average height of 5 ft 11ins.

During the aftern on a photographer from Bellefonte went out and took a picture of the families thus gathered.

Another interesting feature of the afternoon was the horse back ride taken by father Fishburn, who is now 79 years old. The handsome saddle and bridle that were used by him in his ride were among the gifts of the day.

The following is a list of those who were present and sat down to the dinner prepared for the occasion.

J. Henry Fishburn and wife with Salome, Oscar, and Paul at home, Jacob P, with wife and four children of Kansas City, Mo., Mr. and Mrs. John Martin and son of Harrisburg, Pa., Harry E, wife and five children Potter's Mills, George S, and wife, Freeport Ills., William N, wife and three children, Bellefonte, Mr. and Mrs. Richard G. Tate and one child, Big Run, Pa. Charles H., and wife, Freeport Ill., John of Turtle Creek and Fred of Pittsburg Pa.

Mrs. H. K. Hoy, a sister of Mr. Fishburn, and her daughter Caroline, together with the Rev. Ambrose M. Schmidt and family were the invited guests.

All joined in heartily wishing father and mother Fishburn years of prosperity and every good blessing through the years to come.

Dr. Thomas Van Tries while sleeping a few nights ago was badly bitten by a rat.

Little Charles Lyons, whose home is on Howard street fell off of a wagon on Friday and cut and bruised his body very badly. No bones were broken.

Geographical Party.

Miss Ollie Mitchell entertained the members of her Sabbath school class on Tuesday evening in quite a novel way. Each of the young ladies were requested to represent in some manner a country, city or place. Thus making what was termed a "geographical" party. A bell, fastened to the costume of one of the young ladies, indicated "Belfast," "The Red Sea" was represented by carrying a red C. in the hand, "China," was represented by a china dish, "Finland," was a very good puzzle being represented by some earth in a dish and the letter F. thrust into the centre of it. One of the young ladies almost alarmed her friends by her frequent shivers but in spite of that, she could not make them understand that she was representing "Chili." Miss Mitchell puzzled them all, by wearing the letter A. at the foot of her dress, the letter was of buff paper and ment Buffalo.

During the evening various shades of tissue paper was distributed to the guests and each indulged in the fascinating employment of making their favorite flower which each wore and retained as a souvenir of the evening. After some very fine piano music by the young ladies, interspersed by games, Ice cream and cake was served by the hostess, who had planned the company as a kind of farewell to the two members of her class, Miss Elsie Rankin and Miss Nettie Coon, who will go away for the winter to institutions of learning, Miss Cook at State College and Miss Rankin at Lewisburg. It was an evening which will be most pleasantly remembered by all present.
